KATHLEEN WARREN Bio for Eastern Regional Director

I have been involved with NASS for about 5 years, now as a lifetime member, and currently serve on the Breeding Committee and the Webmaster Committee. I own two NASS-registered part-Shagya-Arabian fillies that I bred out of my Arabian broodmare and sired by Starwalker that I plan to present for breeding approval in 2009. I have a varied background in horses, including my degrees in Animal Science and Equine Physiology, and one of my strongest interests is dressage. Since I have been involved in Arabian dressage since the 1980's, I was really excited to discover the Shagya breed because they are so athletic and suited for the type of riding I love as well as having the temperament to ride down the road just for fun. Professionally, I teach Biology and Anatomy & Physiology at Daytona State College. I would like to apply my teaching and other professional skills to help educate others about Shagyas and to continue the high-quality work that NASS has done in building an organization to continue and promote this breed.
